

Terms of conditions for using the free download modules of the software package

DETCHEM™

1. These terms of conditions refer to the free download modules (executables) of the software package DETCHEM™ from the web site www.detchem.com and any other access to DETCHEM without licencing the software package.
2. The free download modules (executables) of the software package DETCHEM™ are for test cases only. For any other use, a licence is required. There are commercial and academic licences available, please contact mail@detchem.com.
3. The free download of the test version does not include support for installation and functionality of the software.
4. No guarantee of faultless performance of the software is given. No guarantee of faultless is given for the description of the software in the downloadable manual.
5. The DAE solvers applied in the software, the mathematical libraries, and compilers needed are not part of DETCHEM™.
6. Reaction mechanisms are not part of the software package DETCHEM. Published reaction mechanisms can be downloaded from www.detchem.com for free.
7. In case of publication of results obtained by using DETCHEM™ or parts of it, explicit reference to the code as stated on www.detchem.com. An electronic reprint, preferable as pdf-file, will be sent to mail@detchem.com.
8. The trade mark "DETCHEM" is owned by Olaf Deutschmann.
9. The software is exclusively distributed by Steinbeis GmbH & Co. für Technologietransfer, Steinbeis-Transferzentrum 240 Reaktive Strömung. Address: Burgunderstr. 14, 76684 Östringen, Germany. Preferred contact is Email: mail@detchem.com.
10. These terms of conditions are accepted when any part of the software package DETCHEM™ is downloaded.

End of the terms of conditions.